make the following declaration under section 9 of the Statutory Declarations Act 1959:

I went to a Lebanese restaurant in Preston to meet Alex to view the BMW because Alex said to and agreed that once I view the BMW and send a photo or video to Michael he will then settle the car on that Friday so I did. I drove two hours from Inverloch to Preston to the restaurant? Alex never turned up so I met the owner of the Lebanese restaurant and his partner and the two other guys that drove the car to the restaurant for me to view the car and do the video and then speak to them on the phone and then I'll also speak to that I can go now and he will settle on Friday and I never settled on the Friday with Michael and his finances. I sent a copy of the video to Michael in Africa for proof that the car still exists and it isn't damaged at all and Alex came up with some excuse not to settle his Finance again.

I believe that the statements in this declaration are true in every particular, and I understand that a person who intentionally makes a false statement in a statutory declaration is guilty of an offence under section 11 of the Statutory Declarations Act 1959, the punishment for which is imprisonment for a term of 4 years.
